

When considering educational travel for your son or daughter, we believe Earth Explore is a great choice. Here's why.

■ We're accredited

We are among the few educational travel organizations that can offer students academic credit opportunities at both the high school and college levels.

We're accredited by three separate educational organizations, and our programs meet the same high standards as our nation's finest schools. Even our teachers can earn credit, at the graduate level.

"Earth Explore provided challenges in the areas of academics, socialization, and independence that parents want for their children; it also provided fun and adventure that kids want. I would absolutely recommend it to a friend!"

-Sally and Mike Hall, Parents

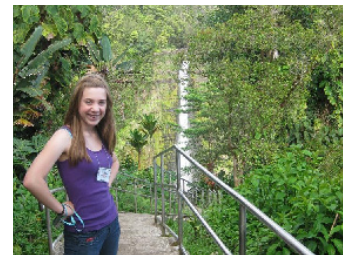

■ We're recommended

More than 90 percent of our students, parents and teachers say they would recommend us to their friends, or travel with us again.

That's a level of satisfaction that's tops in educational student travel. Ask to speak to our alumni. Many of our students and teachers participate with us on multiple trips, year after year.

"She says the program was "mind blowing." She just can't stop talking about it. This is a well organized, high quality program that I would absolutely recommend."

-Karen Woodson, Parent

■ We're experienced

We've been operating life-changing student trips since 1995. We work with long time partners to create extraordinary student travel experiences.

The not for profit Earth Explore Foundation gives us access to the world's finest educational partners, organizations like the University of Hawaii, Alaska Geographic, the Yellowstone Institute and others.

"Justin came home more self-sufficient, more mature, and certainly more educated. He'd love to return on future trips! It was such a positive educational and social experience of a lifetime at a young age."

-Marilee and Jeff Lindahl, Parents

■ We give your student an advantage

Today's students need global knowledge and experience, and the skills to compete successfully. Earth Explore programs are crafted to offer more than just travel.

By combining solid learning with real adventure, students are exposed to new knowledge and insights, and experience opportunities to expand their understanding of the world and its diverse cultures.

"This experience far exceeded our expectations. He said he learned more on the program than a whole semester at school. I highly recommend this as a wonderful life experience."
